

From October 1st
when any type of property is sold or rented out
it will need an energy efficiency check-up.

From this date, all properties for sale or for rent, including businesses, will be examined and given an Energy Performance Certificate. This rates the building's efficiency from A to G and also shows you where the rating could be after a few improvements. If we want to reduce CO₂ emissions, we all need to work at conserving energy.
